

I Am From...

By Blane

I am from a wonderful and beautiful house that has a great color which is one of my favorite colors, sea green. And I always have a nice, safe and warm feeling when I'm in my fantastic home.

I am from owning a snake that is vicious as a bear and sneaky and sly as a fox, who also is very beautiful when it comes to his exquisite patterns.

I am from being left handed. I do love being left handed because it lets me do things differently than most people. I love being different.

I am from going camping every summer at a K.O.A. and always loving to be outside for most of the time I'm there. I sometimes stop and play in the river that is down a little path. The water is so cold that touching the water makes it feel even colder than snow.

I am from sometimes going down to Cranberry Lake, kayaking and swimming in the warm waters. In the lake, there is mysterious eel that I've seen before. It roams throughout the space that is the barrier that separates the deep and shallow areas in the lake.

I am from a great family of five. My mom has such a great sense of humor. I can not tell the difference between my mom and a comedy master. I am from my brother who I like to play games with me for what feels like hours of fun! I am from my dad who also has a huge sense of humor, who is a great math teacher at Stanwood High School. I am from my sister and I playing with our black, brown and fuzzy puppy named Lucy. It is impossible to catch her when we play keep away.

I am from getting so excited every time I smell the scrumptious scent of piping, hot apple cake with brown sugar sprinkled everywhere on top.

I am from:
Myself.
